DRAMA INTEGRATION RESIDENCIES

BRINGING BOOKS TO LIFE: FIVE SESSIONS

Through our fun-filled, immersive five-session residencies, students are engaged in the power of collaborative and visual storytelling that deepens their reading comprehension and critical analysis skills. In these residencies, your students retell stories by creating and bringing to life the setting, characters and events. Below are our current offerings for grades 9-12.

These residencies meet CCSS.ELA-LITERACY.RL/RI reading literature and informational texts standards for grades 9-12. Want a different topic? We can adapt our current offerings to any book or social studies theme.

A Long Walk to Water

Students will use the book as a guide to create in their own visual interpretation of the story. Each day will be spent working on tableaux, monologue writing, prologue and epilogue creation, and finally putting it all together to share their own piece of theatre depicting Salva's journey.

Beowulf

In this workshop, engage your students in the power of collaborative and visual storytelling. Students will analyze the structure and subtext of Beowulf and further examine the epic poem's imagery, transforming your classroom into Hrothgar's great hall and Grendel's lair.

The Diary of Anne Frank

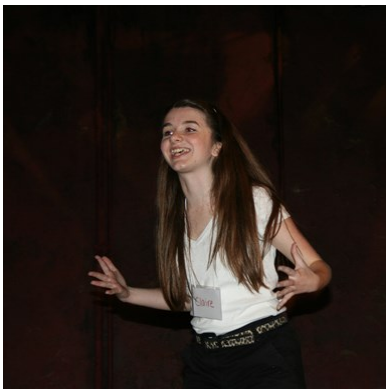

Using writing and performance students will deepen their understanding of The Diary of Anne Frank. They will analyze the text to write monologues, weaving creativity with fact while exploring the impact of one of the most significant eras of recent history.

A Christmas Carol

Engage your students in the power of collaborative and visual storytelling. Students will interpret Charles Dickens' structure and descriptive language and write monologues as the characters. This interactive process will culminate in a retelling of Scrooge's the ghostly visits.

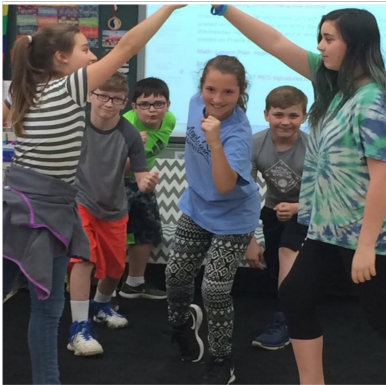

Greek Mythology

Engage your students in the power of visual storytelling. Students will create a theatrical performance that blends different forms of dramatic writing. Through first-person monologues and prologue and epilogue writing, students will embody the story from the descriptions in the myth.
